Why Jayson Tatum is a Great Sponsor for Bose

- Music is very meaningful for many athletes, including Jayson, before games as part of the pre-game routine and mentally preparing to be in a winning mindset
- Bose is a luxury higher-end brand - Jayson Tatum is a top-tier, high-performing superstar talent in today's National Basketball Association
- Tatum's clean and marketable image makes him the perfect role model for this sponsorship - his appeal to Generation Z and the younger NBA fans makes him a popular candidate for this proposal
- Bose is headquartered in Boston and Jayson represents the city of Boston through his performance with the Celtics

Market Value of Jayson Tatum Sponsorship

- Estimated Deal Value: $900,,000 - paid to Jayson for affiliation with Bose over the next 5 years unless terms in the contract are violated on either end
- Russell Wilson and Aaron Rodgers in the past both had deals with Bose worth around 1 million and Jayson is in a similar tier as both of these athletes - perennial, top-tier, superstar that is in MVP conversations and has won a championship
- Currently NBA stars Tyrese Haliburton and Anthony Edwards have sponsorship deals with Bose - the value of these deals are not disclosed publicly but appear to be right around $1,000,000 or even more
- A deal just under $1,000,000 is a bargain for an athlete that is inevitably going to face stardom over the next half decade in his prime

Target Audience

- Younger individuals who are invested in sports and have grown up watching Jayson Tatum develop over his career
- Athletes and people who are focused on fitness - majority of gym-goers utilize headphones to get them in the right mental stage and also focus on training
- NBA fans, Celtics fans, and those who are heavily invested in the sports-world will want to try out these headphones once they see Jayson using them
- Generation Z individuals who enjoy listening to music in their free time or while partaking in other activities

Relative Value of Jayson Tatum

- Jayson Tatum signed a 5 year, $314,000,000 contract which has him making around 71 million dollars a year
- Forbes reported that Jayson Tatum makes $13,000,000 annually through sponsorship deals - he made a deal with his mother to only spend money through the revenue generated by endorsements rather than the earnings from his contract
- Jayson Tatum's net worth as of February 2025 sits right around $80,000,000 and can only expect to go up with his high performance and sponsorship involvement
- Higher graded rookie trading cards of Jayson Tatum go for $1,000 - $30,000 in the sports memorabilia world

Tatum and Deuce Image

Jayson Tatum was born in St. Louis, Missouri in 1998 and is currently 28 years old. He currently plays for the Boston Celtics after attending Duke University to play basketball and was the 3rd overall pick in the 2017 NBA Draft. He also attended the prestigious Chaminade High School. Tatum is known for his leadership and scoring ability after having established himself as a superstar in recent history with multiple all star selections.. Jayson has had many sponsorship opportunities, including notable partnerships with Jordan Brand, Gatorade, Subway, and Ruffles. Jayson Tatum is very close with his mother who played a large part in his upbringing - his father also helped mentor him in basketball and he now has a son named Deuce, whom he has a very close relationship with. Jayson Tatum provides overall value to sponsors because of his elite performance, success, and strong character that resembles a role model figure.

Specific Sport-Imposed Time Constraints

1. Regular Season (October - April) with a packed game schedule and frequent travel all across the US - availability will be limited
2. Playoffs (April - June) is the most intense and unpredictable time in Jayson's career - will be unavailable then
3. Offseason (June - September) will have tons of availability with tie for sponsorship opportunities, training, and interactions with fans
4. Training Camp & Preseason (September - October) will have availability then but likely only certain days of the week - activity will be ramping up as preparation for the regular season begins

Constraints:

1. Game days will have no major sponsorship appearances and focus will be on the game and the media
2. Practice days will have availability but in shorter windows of time
3. Travel days will often be unavailable due to time spent on flights and recovering
4. Must comply with NBA and Celtics approval for endorsements and can't conflict with existing team or league sponsors
